“ Your music was everything to me. "Not my time" was my theme song as I was battling a heart condition having another open heart surgery at the same time you were battling cancer. That song just meant a lot to us both at the time. But your music and your words will live on forever. Ill always play your music weather it make me cry or not. Your music was special. Just as you were. ”

“ I never met Brad in person, but as a very mentally troubled teen and young adult, Brads music and words saved my life many times(once quite literally), just like so, SO many others out there. While we cannot possibly miss him on the level of those closest to him, those who listened to his lyrics, voice and kindness feel as if they've lost a friend or mentor in some way. God bless you all, and may Brad rest in the peace he so heavily believed in and deserves.

“ I write all the way Ghana, West Africa sending this tribute the way of Bradley Arnold's family. I grew up not just enjoying music of 3 Doors Down but getting inspired by the music. I first heard Brad and 3 Doors Down on the radio on Joy FM and then regularly on VOA during dawn studies in my dormitory in high school. My high school mates became fans as well and it was my dream to meet the band and Brad one day but sadly never materialized. Brad was a friend on facebook as well replying to my greetings and engaging me in chats online, however brief. You truly touched and inspired people far beyond your country, Brad!

Thank you for the memories and God bless you and family...
Rest In Peace till we all do meet again...

“ Brad and I met in 2004. I was in radio Broadcasting and he and I immediately hit it off. To say that we shared laughter and good times was certain. I lost touch with him over the years but my memory of my times with him will live on. Absolutely one of the most down to earth "famous" people I have ever known. I miss him and still can't believe he's gone from this world. Thanks for letting me be a small part of your life my friend. Miss you BK!

“ In 2011, I was at a low spot in my life due to a pretty serious health issue. On Saturday, July 16, 2011, I saw Brad Arnold and 3 Doors Down perform at the Magic Springs Timberwood Amphitheater. They rocked the house, focused on helping veterans, and uplifted everyone with their message. Brad’s message was inspiring and encouraged me to not give up. In 2012, I had a procedure which helped greatly improve my health. I never forgot the encouragement I received from that concert. In 2025, Brad and his family were in my prayers. They still are today.

“ Brad is 1 year younger than me. In the early 2000's The Better Life album was the soundtrack of my life. I always wanted to meet him but never got the opportunity. The sad truth is I always thought I would have more time. Before Brad died he had rededicated his life to Christ. To me, that is the most important decision of Brad's life. He had everything this world can offer yet he chose God over all and I believe God was preparing him to go home. This one hurts really bad because he wasn't your typical rock star. He seemed to always stay grounded and humble despite massive success. That is rare in the music industry. Brad, your fans, friends, and family will forever miss you. Praying for your family through this difficult time. I've been listening to your music catalog the past few days. So many great memories. Your music helped so many of us over the years. 3 Doors Down and Brad Arnold. You will never be forgotten. Much love and respect. Til we meet again in God's kingdom.

“ I am Brandon Miller lead singer of A Foreigners Journey To Boston out of Brentwood Tennessee

I'm originally from Hattiesburg, Mississippi

I got to meet Brad a few times throughout my career and he was always so kind to me. He was a wonderful man, and it breaks my heart he's not longer here. I wasn't able to see him again and tell him how much I truly appreciated him and his influence.. He was 14 years older than me. And I remember when they hit back in 1999 like it was yesterday.

My heart and love and prayers go out to the family, I can't imagine.

“ Rest in peace Brad. I will miss you but I take comfort in the fact I will always get to hear your voice. You were a good man and you made a difference in the world. Thank you for everything. 3 Doors Down's music saved my life through the years. The silence remains in particular and seeing the lyrics now I think of you and Jesus Christ and hoping you're at peace now.

Lay down rest here in peace in my arms now
Knowing you're safe
From the storms and the rain
And from all of your pain
And I'll be here when
Only the silence remains

I'll never forget you Brad. I love you.

“ I am so proud of our Mississippi boys who didn't leave us behind for "bigger and better" places. I'm also so thankful for 3 Doors Down because I met the man I would marry after their concert in Jackson in 2003. I would never have met him nor have our wonderful son who is now 15. “ I know no one on here knows who I am, but I wanted to share that I have been a big fan of 3 Doors Down and their music for many years and have seen them live a couple of times, they were phenomenal, and I was very sad to hear about Brad Arnold’s passing. He was very talented and too young to go. The last time I saw 3 Doors Down, Brad gave the crowd a beautiful speech about Jesus and how He loves us all, and it was just amazing. My sincere condolences to his whole family, his wife, his friends, and his bandmates.

Christian Cordaro - February 11 at 09:49 PM

“ The world lost a great one. Music lost a great one. I saw 3DD for the first time in Oxford at Ole Miss. I was in line early, the 3rd person there. My cousin and I decided to walk around and saw the guys playing with a remote control car outside their bus. We were walking toward them and she got nervous so we ran. I know now what kind of guy Brad was-and we probably would’ve been met with kindness. I wish I had just kept walking. I saw him again in Brandon just about 2 years ago and heard him testify about the love of Jesus and could hear the love and joy in his voice. I know he was met with Open arms into the Kingdom.

Praying for his beautiful wife and his family.

Amanda Martin - February 11 at 09:48 PM

“ Thank you for the great music and sharing your love of Jesus Christ. Watching you perform and speak as the front man for 3 Doors Down live, are memories that will last forever. Your music and legacy will live on forever. My deepest apologies for the loss to your wife, family and friends. It isn't goodbye Brad, it's "I'll see you later". I know Jesus welcomed you with arms wide open saying "Job well done my faithful servant ".

“ Thank you for the amazing concerts and memories I'll cherish forever! 3 Doors Down has been one of my favorite bands ever and to see you all live...was amazing! Loved Brad and his talks between songs about his love for his fans, his family, for God. Last concert we saw them in July 2025 and he was making me laugh about how tight his pants got and was afraid they were going to tear while he was bouncing around singing at the concert!...LMAO! Meeting you in person was just as surreal. So kind, met with a hug and hand shake. Thanked us for coming out to see your show. One of the best nights ever! So many memories I'll never forget. Today my heart aches as I think about Brad Arnold, the voice behind 3 Doors Down and so many songs that carried us through different seasons of life.

I never had the chance to meet Brad. I only knew him through his music, interviews, and the stories people shared about him. But sometimes that is enough to understand who someone really was. The more I read about him, the heavier this loss feels. Not just because of the music, but because of the man.

He had a kind of authenticity that is rare. Fame never seemed to change him. He was grounded. Grateful. Quick to give credit to others. You could hear it in the way he talked about his bandmates, his family, and his faith. You could see it in the way he treated fans. He carried himself like someone who understood that the spotlight was a privilege, not an entitlement.

So many of us grew up with his voice in the background of our lives. Songs that played in our trucks. Songs that helped us through breakups, long drives, tough days, and moments when we needed something steady. His music became part of our memories. That kind of impact does not fade.

My heart hurts for his family. For his friends. For the bandmates who stood beside him night after night, year after year. Losing someone like that leaves a space that cannot be filled. I pray they feel the love and gratitude that so many of us have for him.

The world needs more people like Brad Arnold. People who stay humble when they could be arrogant. People who stay kind when they could be distant. People who use their platform to connect instead of divide.

Thank you, Brad, for the music. For the example. For showing that you can chase big dreams and still remain a good man at your core.

Rest easy. Your voice and your legacy will live on in all of us who were better for having heard it.

“ They say music is what feelings sound like, and for me, Brad Arnold was the voice of my resilience. ❤️👍

Looking back, I'm 37, almost 38 years old, I realized that I didn't just "listen" to 3 Doors Down—I lived through those songs. When I was younger and the world felt like it was closing in, Brad's lyrics were the only thing that understood the "stuff" I was carrying. He wasn't just a singer on a stage; he was the person telling me I wasn't alone in the dark.

There were nights when "Away from the Sun" was the only thing that made sense, and days when "Kryptonite" gave me the spark to keep fighting. From the longing in "Here Without You" to the hope in "Be Like That," his music didn't just get me through—it saved me. It was the steady hand I reached for when life got heavy.

Brad, I appreciate you more than anything. Thank you for being brave enough to share your struggles so that people like me could find the strength to face ours. Your impact on my life is permanent, and I am so grateful to still have your voice in this world. 🙏🎸 - Danielle Krepps

“ I have been a fan of 3 Doors Down since the beginning. Their music helped me cope with my husband’s deployment back in 2005. My sister and I got to see them live. So glad that I did. Thank you Brad for sharing your music with the world and for sharing your faith so openly. His passing has left a giant hole in my heart, but I will celebrate that he is fully healed in the arms of Jesus.

I have never felt a loss so strong from losing someone that a really didn't know. I mean I know I loved him and his music. Seeing the band live was the highlight of my life the last 15 years. When the show was over, I would stick around just to watch Brad interact with the crowd. He was such a amazing human. His energy was so uplifting and positive I didn't want it to end. You could feel it all the way to the back row. I send my sincere condolences to the family, friends and fans. Jen too. You were so lucky to be his wife. To share everyday life with Brad. What a blessing. So sorry it ended way too soon. Stay strong and hold onto each other. God Bless you all. PS - I'm still crying. 😭

“ I will never forget my "aha" moment. It all began with "Let Me Go" I came across and started persistently listening to back in a day when I was still living in Poland. Didn't quite know who the band was but the song resonated so much with me. Then I looked up the artist. Then I listened to more songs: "When I'm Gone" and "Here Without You". Suddenly things clicked and started making sense. It's 3 Doors Down...

Fast forward (almost) 20 years and here I am listening to the band all the time. To me it wasn't just a bunch of guys who got together and made some music. To me, 3DD is part of my identity, a chapter in life that carried a great meaning, it formed who I am today. I have never seen a single artist or another band as many times as I have seen 3DD. My most memorable experience was in Albany, NY, the Meet and Greet event when I got to shake your hand and chat a bit- will cherish that forever.

Your Instagram bio once quoted: "we're not handed tomorrow so I'll live for today". I want to finish with another one that I very much like: "at least a million times I've fallen but never will I break."

Thank you for your music, it meant a lot to me and carried me through tough times. In particular, thank you for "Let Me Go", the song that started it all for me.

RIP and see you again "on the other side".

“ I first saw Brad perform with 3 Doors Down at a USO concert in Naples Italy in 2002. It was there that I first fell in love with the band and their music. I saw them again a couple of years later, this time in Milwaukee, and for the last time in West Palm Beach in 2024. At every concert Brad's live for the music and his fans shine through his performances. He shared not only his songs, but his deep faith too, and came across as such a lovely, genuine person. From the early days of the band, to his final ones, that never changed. A light definitely went out the day he left this world, but his memory will live on in all who had the pleasure of knowing him and his music. 3 Doors Down was such an integral part of my teenage years, and stayed with me through every stage of life, and I am so grateful that Brad chose to share his talent and light with the world. Rest in Peace Brad. Being here without you sucks, but we will love you when you're gone ❤️

“ Growing up in a small town within a poor family, we had limited means of entertainment. No family vacations, no spring break, nothing. What we did have was some pioneer speakers that blasted 3 Doors Down. Within those lyrics was freedom. Freedom that gave me the courage to overcome some of life's most heartbreaking tragedies. Throughout my life there was always one of his songs that I could turn to. I passed that down to my children who shared the same heartbreak with this news. The loss we feel is rough, but the loss his family feels is far worse. Thank you for sharing him with his thousands of fans. My love is with his wife and family.

“ I almost took my life back in 2001. I had lost the love of my life and my car broke down, lost my job and my home. I couldn't see my sons and me and my daughter were homeless. I was in a very lonely dark place and then I listened to 3 Doors Down. Their songs spoke of my pain and I felt heard and understood. Last year I seen Brad on Tic Tok speaking his testimony and how Jesus saved his life and how Jesus wanted to take up my burdens and give me peace. Brad renewed my faith. I know there are thousands of us that has been changed from listening to Brad and his music. My heart goes out to all his family and friends. “ This one really hurts. 💔

His music was there for so many of us, blasting on the radio. He had a way of writing songs that felt honest and human, the kind you connected with and still feel years later no matter how many times you've heard them. Songs that are still on the playlist in my truck.

Brad wasn't just a great musician and songwriter..... he was part of the music growing up for a lot of us. Sending love to his family, friends, bandmates, and everyone who felt connected to his music. Rest easy, Brad. Your songs will keep playing. 🎵

“ The first ever song I heard from 3 Doors Down was Kryptonite when I was in Kindergarten back in 2000 when I lived in Florida, ever since then I feel like love with 3 Doors Down and have loved all of there songs since then and 3 Doors Down have always will forever be my favorite 1 band of all time, I have seen Brad and the band perform several times in Florida, and now they I have lived in Texas since 2012 I have seen them perform several times here in Texas and Oklahoma, which the last time I got to them play was back in 2024 in November. Brad has left a very big impact on me and a very big legacy on me and I will forever ever and always miss him so very much, I will always miss seeing him on stage with Justin, Chet, Chris and Greg. I am praying you all and will always love you guys so much, even though I don't know you guys the Arnold family is like a second family to me and they will always be in my heart forever and ever and 3 Doors Down will always be my second family as well. Brad has gotten me through the bad days and the hard times even know when I have hard days at work; love you guys so very much.

For someone I didn't know personally, this really hurts, deep! Here Without you, was my song for my boyfriend, he traveled for work. He passed in 2020. When I saw Sunday, that Brad had passed, it brought all the memories flooding back! I'm so glad I got to see Brad & 3 Doors Down, here in Knoxville, Tennessee. Thank you Brad! You were the best! My thoughts & prayers are with his family, wife, band, friends & fans! Fly High Brad! You will forever be missed & Never Forgotten! Jackie, Knoxville, TN. 💔😭🙏

“Heaven gained another bright light from this world. There isn't & never will be another that comes close to the talent, the grace, and the down to earth soul that is Brad Arnold. I took my son (we're from Meridian) to see him twice - once in Tupelo and again in Mobile. Both great times, we'll never forget and we are thankful. Our condolences to Brad's family, friends & band mates. 🙏❤️🎸🎵

“ For Brad Arnold, the guy who wasn’t just a singer — he was necessary.

Brad, you weren’t just the voice behind “Kryptonite.” You were the guy who, at 15 years old, scribbled in a math notebook a song that would save thousands of lost teenagers, questioning who they were and whether anyone would notice if they disappeared. That simple, raw lyric became an anthem. And it didn’t stop there.

*You gave us the entire The Better Life as the soundtrack of a generation that grew up amid uncertainties, fights at home, first loves that hurt, and the feeling that the world was too big and too small at the same time. “Loser,” “Duck and Run,” “Be Like That” — each one was a punch to the chest and a hug at the same time.*

*Then came Away from the Sun, and there you showed you could be truly vulnerable. “Here Without You” wasn’t just a ballad; it was the scream of someone who loves a person who’s far away, who feels the emptiness in an empty bed, who stares at the ceiling at night and asks “why?”. Millions of us cried with you in that song, and we felt less alone because you sang what we couldn’t put into words.*

Seventeen Days, 3 Doors Down, Us and the Night... every album was a piece of our story. They were there for graduations, breakups, late-night car rides with the volume maxed out, moments when we thought we couldn’t take it anymore — and then “It’s Not My Time” came on and reminded us: it’s not time to give up yet.

You weren’t just a singer, Brad. You were necessary. Necessary for those who needed lyrics that spoke of faith without being cheesy, of pain without being dramatic, of hope without being a lie. Your raw, honest voice carried the weight of someone who had lived enough to know that life hurts, but it also carries light.

From a true fan who listened to every song — from the old demos to the B-sides — your passing today hurts like losing a friend who never let you down. But know this: you didn't really leave. You live in every playlist we still play when the day gets heavy. In every "When I'm Gone" we sing alone in the car. In every "Kryptonite" that still makes us feel invincible for three and a half minutes.

Thank you for being the sound of our rebellion, our fragility, our strength. Thank you for writing the soundtracks to our most real lives.

You fought with courage until the very end. Now rest in peace, surrounded by the light you always sang about having.

And us? We'll keep listening. Keep feeling. Keep carrying you with us.

Because real heroes don't die — they become eternal in the voices that sing them back.

Rest easy, Brad. And know that as long as there's a fan like me still breathing, "Kryptonite" will keep playing. And we'll keep being here... without you, but with you forever.

*With a broken yet grateful heart,
A true fan.*

“ As an OIF/OEF Army veteran, Brad's songs helped me to process so much; I don't think I was alone in this respect, as 3DD has a huge following in the military. I saw him and 3DD in concert twice, and became an even bigger fan for two reasons. 1) His genuine character radiated in how he spoke and reacted with the crowd. 2) He paused to give glory to God in a sincere, heartfelt manner. That might have been the only time some of those people had been witnessed to and it definitely wasn't the "popular" thing to do at a rock concert. But Brad did it anyway, for tens of thousands of people. That made him so much more than a musician. It made him a great man.

DAVID LLOYD - February 09 at 02:04 AM

“ I’ve been thinking how Brad must have thought that God would provide a miracle & heal him. And how he must have felt when he realized he wasn’t. I’m 41, a wife & mom. I’ve fought stage 4 colon cancer at MD Anderson for 8 years straight. I can understand expecting that miracle to come. I’ve been there. God’s Will is impossible to understand. Maybe when we all reach Heaven we will fully know then why things had to turn out the way they did. God often takes the good ones too soon. Is that a coincidence? Maybe because their light shines the brightest. Maybe it catches God’s eye & He says “Ah-Ha! Now that one can help me build my Kingdom!” And when that light is taken from us, it hurts, it stings, it burns. The void is felt deeply. So we search deeply for the light the same one that Brad talked about. We want it to snuff out the darkness in our own life. We want what Brad had within his own heart. I believe God used him to his full potential to draw the lost & hopeless near him to complete His work. Brad was able to do what most of us ordinary people can’t because of his God given talent. Maybe that was the plan for his life all along. He continues to draw even more souls nearer to Heaven through his music, his testimony, & also with his passing. He reached the millions of people across the WORLD & continues today spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ. Thank you Brad. Rest in the arms of Jesus.

“ *Mrs Jennifer and family,
Please accept my deepest condolences to you and family at this difficult time. Mr brad was a very powerful person and had an impact on everyone who knew him and also listened to his music! Mrs Jennifer, my thoughts and prayers are with you at this difficult time!*

“ Brad's testimony was so much to so many. His faith was strong and he used his platform in the most beautiful way. He was a celebrity rockstar but he was humble and addressed his fans as his friends. He connected with his fans like no other. Our prayers are with his family. Brad you will be missed. Thank you for sharing your talents and faith with us!

“ My sincere condolences to Brad's family, loved ones, friends, & fans throughout the world.

Three Doors Down has always...been a favorite band of mine from the very first time I heard them

Im saddened by his going home

Im glad that Brad was a believer

We shall see him again

May the Almighty bring You comfort

May our LORD grant Brad HIS kingdom

THANK YOU BRADLEY, FOR SHARING YOUR TALENT, VOICE, MUSIC, AND SONGS with everybody

Til We see You again in YESHUA HA'MASHIACH'S banquet

“ September 2025, my brother zach and I were on our way to boces, both in a bad mood, we put on when im gone by 3 doors down, we raced like it was the daytona 500, we had to have gone 115 and the rest of the day we rode mini bikes and listened to 3 doors down the day was amazing because of this music, tonight I slammed a coors banquet and poured one out for this man. Long live brad arnold, rest in peace my hero. 🎸

I'm not so sure why this seems to hit me harder than the deaths of many of my other favorite rockers. In fact Brad is way younger than me and I didn't get to ride around in my teen years listening to his music. I think it's because of the many interviews I watched of him and how sincere he was in everything he did and especially in his love for Jesus. I got to see 3 Doors Down at Charlie Daniel's 80th birthday in 2016 and in 2022 at Sand Mountain Amphitheatre. 3 Doors Down was by far the best performer at the 2016 concert and there were a couple of my favorites performers besides 3 Doors Down performing that night. I will never forget Brad performing Kryptonite Reggae style. It was unbelievable and that's the only real good musical memory I have of that night. My heart truly hurts for his wife and family because I know if I'm hurting when I didn't personally know him how they must be grieving. I have the hope of heaven and that I will get to see him there one day. I hope everyone will have that Hope will will follow Jesus like Brad did.
