“ Momma,
No one told me you passed until I got the letter from social security administration and your Medicaid office that they were sorry to hear about your passing! I just collapsed on to the floor in shock and pain of not being there to make sure that you had everything you wanted and needed done right. I still have it written down the list the dress, jewelry and make up, hair and all. I'm sorry for letting you down but I know I will see you again and then we can talk, garden, dance yes dance to the music without pain. I think of you often and the things you gave me are safe and sound and Riley loves and treasures his trunk from you. He puts his ammo and video games in it! lol but the other trunk, hand painted by you, is next to me. Polished loving by me with Aunt Jo's quilt she gave me on my wedding day. When I go I want Aaron or Morgan to get it. It will try to keep it in the family as I promised. I love and miss my bestie.
Always and still your loving daughter-in-law,
Teza Ellingburg
