“ My wife and I lost our son August 7th, 2012 from a heatstroke death. While the circumstances were different the tragedy is the same. We want you to know that we are out here and if you need us you can reach out to us. I know that today and the past 6 days are the hardest that you will ever face in life. Do know that time does make things a little better, and that you are not alone in your grief. I know that right now you all are just trying to breath, but if/when the time comes that you need/want to talk with us we are will be here. With love and compassion Aaron and Stephanie Gray
